2021 marks the 100th anniversary of the Communist Party of China (CPC). On 1 July 2021, China Post issued a mini-pane of a set of 20 commemorative stamps and a commemorative cover under the theme “The 100th Anniversary of the Founding of the Communist Party of China” to commemorate this momentous occasion. Taking red and gold as the main tone of the picture, the commemorative stamps are designed in set-tenant style and presented realistically via oil painting, with the continuous ribbons that run through the whole picture implying the glorious history of the CPC in its 100 years of struggle. The commemorative cover carries the Party emblem, a golden inscription in Chinese “不忘初心 牢记使命” (meaning “staying true to the Party’s original aspiration and founding mission”), the official logo for the CPC’s 100th anniversary celebrations, as well as the Great Wall in the design. The Macao Post and Telecommunications Bureau also issued special stamps for celebration. The set of four stamps each illustrates a significant event in the CPC history, while the stamp sheetlet transforms the relief sculpture of “Victory Crossing the Yangtze River” on the Monument to the People’s Heroes into illustrations to narrate the great accomplishment of the CPC, showing the glorious scene of crossing the Yangtze River against a sea of red flags filled with joy and celebration.
